Elder G. M. Shutts Passes Away Following Paralytic Stroke, at Age of Sixty-six Years.

TRIBUTE IS PAID BY FRIEND

Every Christian Church in Jackson County Has Heard His Earnest Messages of Truth.

Elder G. M. Shutts, for eleven years a resident of this city and prominent in the Christian churches of Jackson county, died at 8:40 o'clock Friday night at his home on North Ewing street, as the result of a paralytic stroke which he suffered Wednesday afternoon. He had been ill for many months.

Elder Grandville Mayfield Shutts was the son of Aaron B. and Caroline Shutts and was born at Dillsboro, Ind., August 19, 1852. He died March 17, making his exact age sixty-six years, six months and twenty-eight days. Eleven years ago he moved from Brownstown to this city and had since resided here.

ELDER G. M. SHUTTS.

On October 2, 1871, Elder Shutts was united in marriage to Miss Eliza Meeh, of Harrison county. To this union were born seven children, only two of whom, A. B. and R. E. Shutts, of Alhambra, Cal., survive him. The others died in infancy. His wife died March 22, 1884. He was again united in marriage to Josephine Hendricks, of Harrison county, and to them were born six children, three of whom preceded him to The Beyond. Those living are: Mrs. Lottie Meyers, of Seymour, Mrs. Lottie Goble, of Rockford, and Lorenzo at home. Miss Luella Elkins, a granddaughter, has made her home with him several years. He was a member of a family of four brothers and five sisters. Besides the above named children he leaves his widow, twelve grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, three brothers, William H., of Brownstown, Warren, of Chicago, and Ashworth, of Waukegan, Ill., three sisters, Mrs. William Roth, of Seymour, Mrs. Frank Piercefield and Mrs. Max Ping, of Columbus, other relatives and innumerable friends to mourn the loss of a wise counsellor and one ever ready to help on any occasion.

In speaking of the life and services of the deceased, a friend said: "At the age of twenty-three years, Brother Shutts became a Christian, uniting with the Tabernacle Christian church at Columbus under the preaching of Elder Z. T. Sweeney. He at once began to preach Christ, continuing faithful in his calling to the end, covering a period of forty years. He preached in different parts of the state for nine years but for the last thirty-one years his work had been practically confined to Jackson county in which field he had labored as county evangelist. He had preached in every congregation and had been the guest in every Christian home.

"Brother Shutts' is a household and a common name on every tongue of those who knew him. In Jackson county he organized and aided in housing six congregations and three in Washington county. He baptized many hundreds of people, among whom were his own father and mother. He was a zealous preacher, his

SEMI-FINAL BASKETBALL GAMES STAGED TODAY

Martinsville Meets Lafayette and Vincennes Battles With Crawfordsville—Kokomo Defeated.

By United Press. Bloomington, March 18—The Indiana high school basketball tournament reached the semi-finals this afternoon when the Martinsville and Lafayette teams took the floor. Later Vincennes and Crawfordsville will battle to decide which shall meet the winner of the former game in the final tonight.

Crawfordsville entered the semi-finals defeating Kokomo 36 to 21.

Lafayette's high school basketball team defeated Liberty Center, 60 to 19, in the state tournament. Vincennes defeated Valparaiso 22 to 16 in a fast game.

D. W. LEWIS BECOMES ROUTE AGENT FOR WELLS-FARGO CO.

Miss Grace Love, Reporter for Republican, Accepts Position as Chief Clerk in Local Office.

Following the appointment of D. W. Lewis as route agent of the Wells-Fargo Express Company to succeed H. E. Hennis, who has been transferred to another district, it is rumored that important changes are to be made in the local office by which it will become the most important between Cincinnati and St. Louis. It is stated that plans are under way with the two traction companies by which these lines will become express carrying roads. Such an arrangement would make this city an important transfer point. Officials of the I. C. & S. Line said today that such an arrangement was being investigated but that nothing definite had been decided and that there was no statement to be made at this time.

Ernest Amick is local agent of the company, having succeeded the late Miss Effie Smith, who was one of the two woman agents in the employ of the Wells-Fargo Company in the United States. Mr. Amick is an energetic young man and under his management the Wells-Fargo Company's business will be looked after carefully.

Beginning Monday Miss Grace Love, who has been a reporter on the Republican for several years, will become chief clerk in the local office. Miss Love is well equipped to assume the new duties as she is endowed with a pleasant manner and knows how to meet the public. Her work will require her time in the office. During the years Miss Love has been a member of the Republican force she has been faithful and loyal. During her work collecting items for the personal column she has made many warm friends who congratulate her on her new position which opens a field of new possibilities to her.

PRUDENTIAL AGENTS SPRING SURPRISE ON THEIR CHIEF

W. C. Young, Assistant Superintendent Honored With a Novel and Pleading Celebration.

This was a "red letter" day in the business career of W. C. Young, assistant superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company. In the first place this was "Billy's" birthday. Several days ago, he incidentally dropped the remark that he would celebrate his twenty-ninth birthday today and his loyal corps of agents decided to help him celebrate. Accordingly, without taking Billy into their confidence, the agents decided to establish a new record of business for the present week.

The agents prepared a handsome booklet on the cover of which was Mr. Young's picture and a brief statement of their plan. Today a meeting of the agents was held at which the plans were divulged. D. Huffer, of Columbus, the superintendent was present. The agents then explained that on industrial insurance they had an increase of $6.56 over cancellations. This represents the largest business in two years for the local office and is four times larger than the average per capita of any assistance throughout the Prudential system.

Returned Missionaries.

Rev. and Mrs. Robinson, returned missionaries from China, will speak at the annual meeting of the Women's Union Missionary Society at the Presbyterian church next Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. They are expected to appear in costume. All the women of Seymour are invited to hear these interesting addresses.

KOKOMO TEAM WINS WITH LONG SHOTS

Parker and Arbuckle Cage Many Goals From Different Angles, Defeating Local Team, 37 to 13.

FIRST PERIOD ENDED 19 TO 4

Winners Get Many Chances at Throwing Fouls and Miss Few—Seymour Team Complimented.

Special to Seymour Republican. Bloomington, March 18.—Kokomo's husky team proved too strong for Seymour yesterday afternoon, and, led by the rangy Parker, considered by many as the best center in the tournament, triumphed over the Seymour boys, 37 to 13. Long shots at difficult angles featured the play of the Kokomo team, Parker and Arbuckle caging many goals from the center of the floor. Seymour was unable to break up the passing of the Kokomo team and the few times they did get the ball had little luck in finding the basket. Boyles and Sumner, with one basket each, doing all the Seymour scoring in the first half, which ended 19 to 4.

In the second period the play of the Seymour team showed much improvement, some pretty passing featuring their work. McCurdy and Sumner each registered field goals in this half, while Boyles added two more. Ackerman added one point on a free throw. All the while, however, the Kokomo team was playing an airtight game, and what time Parker was not caging field goals he was dropping in fouls, missing only once out of his numerous chances.

The Seymour boys played their best game against a much heavier, larger and stronger team, and have no reason to be ashamed of their showing, as it appears that Kokomo has one of the strongest teams on the floor.

Tournament Notes.

Last night's game between Martinsville and Lebanon was one of the fiercest fought games ever witnessed between high school teams. It was almost ten minutes before either team scored, so close was the guarding, and the score at the end of the half was 4 to 2 in favor of Martinsville. Lebanon appeared to have the best team, but lost many baskets by the narrowest margins.

Martinsville's pampered team has a loyal bunch of rooters on hand who lose no opportunity to boost their team. Business men and elderly ladies are as much in evidence in their crowd as high school students.

Bloomington's fast team work took the Lebanon team by surprise in the first game yesterday morning, and the college city team led, 11 to 10, at the end of the half. Lebanon came strong in the second period, however, and won with ease.

Liberty Center and Cicero vied with each other for the honor of sporting the loudest uniforms. The former team's outfit was purple and yellow, half and half, while the Cicero regalia was bright red and yellow. The latter team was hailed as the "Greasers," as a result of the charge that they had greased themselves in the game they won in the sectional tournament.

Jumbo Stiehm, the Crimson's new coach, was given a rousing reception when he entered the gymnasium last evening. He was compelled to bow his acknowledgements to the immense crowd.

In the first game last evening Clinton held Crawfordsville practically even in the first half, but in the second half the Crawfordsville players ran away from them, giving a great exhibition of long distance goal shooting. They found the ring from every corner of the floor, often shooting from beyond the center of the floor.

Vincennes won from Brookville in almost the last second of play. With but a minute to play and the score two points against them, Brookville tied the score with a pretty field goal, but just a second before the whistle

EXHIBIT TO BE OF SWOPE PICTURES

Local Art League Arranges with Harry Vance Swope to Show His Canvases Here.

IN RECOGNITION OF HIS WORK

Earl M. Cox, Guest at Herron Art Institute Exhibit, Sees Two Pictures to be Sent Here.

More than usual interest is manifested in the annual art exhibit to be held at the Shields high school building during commencement week and immediately following because of the announcement that it will include only pictures by Harry Vance Swope, a former Seymour resident. This was decided upon, it was stated today, in honor of Mr. Swope and in recognition of the fame he has achieved both in the United States and abroad as an artist. He is regarded as one of the foremost figures in the world of art today and his paintings have been admired in the greatest exhibits of the world.

Mr. Swope has already given his consent to have his pictures sent here for the annual exhibit and has stated that he will spend two weeks here. He expects to come before the exhibit opens and will personally supervise the hanging of the canvases and the lighting arrangement. This will be a material help to the local Art League as he has given special attention to the light effects and will give the League the benefit of his experience.

Mr. Swope has already made several valuable contributions to the local Art League. The pictures which he has given to the association were contributed because of his desire to assist the members in their work and to have part in the collection of the pictures which the League has already started. Mr. Swope will give at least one address to the members of the League and visitors during the exhibit.

Earl M. Cox, secretary of the local League, was in Indianapolis Friday night and attended the reception and private view of the exhibit by Indiana artists at the John Herron Institute. The exhibit was the formal opening and only artists of the state who have pictures on exhibit, a few invited guests and the faculty of the Herron Art Institute were present.

Among the pictures in the Indiana exhibit were two by Mr. Swope. These are among his best work and will be included in the exhibit to be held in this city in May. Mr. Cox is enthusiastic over the work of Mr. Swope and predicts that the coming local exhibit will be the best that has ever been held here. The local exhibit will include from thirty to forty of Mr. Swope's canvases.

SIMPLICITY MARKS THE FUNERAL OF LATE SENATOR

Body of Benjamin F. Shively Viewed by Hundreds of Citizens of South Bend and Indiana.

By United Press.

South Bend, Ind., March 18—South Bend this afternoon performed the last rites in honor of the memory of her first citizen, Benjamin Franklin Shively, senator from Indiana, who died Tuesday afternoon.

From 10 until 1 o'clock today the body lay in state at the Shively home and was viewed by hundreds of friends from this city and Indiana who formed a long line in the street. The funeral ceremony, performed at 2 o'clock this afternoon was private with only relatives, the delegation that accompanied the body on a special train from Washington and a few special friends present. The ceremony was brief and was marked by democratic simplicity as had been the Senator's wish.

MRS. HERMAN ALBERRING PASSES TO HER REWARD

Born in Germany Seventy-seven Years Ago and Came to U. S. With Children in 1882.

Mrs. Herman Alberring, aged seventy-seven years, died at 8 o'clock this morning at her home five miles west of the city. She was a native of Germany, having been born in Zellerfeld am Hartz, April 27, 1839. While in Germany she was united to David Steinwedel who died thirty-five years ago. A year later she immigrated to the United States with her five children. About a year ago she was taken ill and during the last few weeks her condition had been critical.

Nine years ago she was united in marriage to Herman Steinwedel and resided in this county continuously until her death. She was a member of the German Lutheran Evangelical church and of the Ladies' Aid Society of the local congregation. She was the mother of five children: Edward S., Charles Steinwedel and Adolph Steinwedel, of this city, and Mrs. Augusta Koop and Mrs. Minnie Willman, both deceased. Besides the children her husband, twenty-nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren survive.

The funeral will occur from the residence at 12 o'clock and at 1:30 from the German Lutheran church here Monday afternoon. Burial at the Hackman or German Lutheran cemetery.

Mrs. Mitchell Dead.

Mrs. Sarah E. Mitchell died this afternoon at 12:15 o'clock at her home on East Fifth street, following an illness of a complication of diseases. She was born in Medora, September 15, 1865, and was the daughter of Amos and Elizabeth Weddell. She was the widow of the late James Mitchell. There are six children, Dallas Mitchell, Mrs. Alfred Beatty, Miss Emma Mitchell, of this city, Mrs. Dessie Doane, of Chicago, Charles Mitchell, of Indianapolis and George Stroud, of Cortland, a son by a former marriage, and five grandchildren.

The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, conducted by Rev. J. H. Strong, pastor of the Nazarene tery.

MISSIN' YOUR DOG? MAYBE YOU'LL FIND HIM AT JAIL

Police Have "Arrested" a Bunch and Are Now Trying to Locate the Various Owners.

Have you missed your dog? If you have you'll probably find him secure behind lock and key in possession of the police officers. A number of canines found running at large on the street in violation of the new ordinance have been taken up by the police. The dogs will be held for several days and if their owners cannot be located they will be sold to anyone who is in the market for such live stock. The police say already several offers have been made by persons desiring to buy a dog. If the owners do not take them up in a few days they will be sold, the police say.

Wm. Fetter of Russia.

Rev. Wm. Fetter, of Russia, will speak at the First Baptist church, of this city, next Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Fetter has been exiled from Russia for his religious belief. He was once sent to Siberia, and now is not allowed to return to his native land. He is a great religious leader who has undergone all sorts of persecutions for his religion. He is a speaker of great power and comes with a burning message concerning religious conditions in Russia. He will receive subscriptions while here for the relief of Russian prisoners of war. The meeting will be interdenominational and all citizens are invited to hear this history making man.

Franklin P. Smith is arranging a series of meetings once a week at the public library for boys. His plan is to have men who have made a success of their life work meet the boys and tell them how they did it. Local men and those away from the city will be invited to places at the various meetings. All the boys of the city will be invited to places at the various meetings. All the boys of the city will be invited and more definite announcement will be made later.

FIRST CLASH WILL BE SUPREME TEST

Skirmish Between U. S. Troops and Villistas Will Decide Character of Cooperation to be Given.

TORREON IS POWDER BARREL

Casas Grandes May be Match and Explosion May Come if Mexicans are Killed on Own Soil.

By United Press. Douglass, Ariz., March 18—The American troops in Mexico face a crisis today in a possible skirmish with Mexicans.

Mining men and ranchers who know Mexico thoroughly declare that the first clash with Villistas would be the supreme test of the cooperation of some of the Carranza soldiers as well as of the peons. If the predicted general uprising against "the invaders" is to come it will be over the distorted news of the killing of Mexicans on their soil.

Torreon is the powder barrel of Northern Mexico. Casas Grandes may be the match. In both cities Villista sentiment is strong.

A clash with Villista sympathizers near Casas Grandes would in the opinion of the refugees who have arrived here from Torreon cause the explosion which both Carranza and the United States are so anxious to forestall.

BILL OPPOSES AGREEMENT CONCERNING SUBMARINE USE

Measure Introduced in Reichstag by National Liberty and Other Parties—Exception Made.

By United Press. Berlin, March 18—The National Liberty party today introduced a bill in the Reichstag directing the chancellor to enter into no agreements with other nations limiting Germany's use of the submarine, excepting in case of passenger carrying vessels. Similar bills were introduced by the Conservative and Center parties.

WILSON APPROVES THE HAY ARMY REORGANIZATION BILL

Chairman Hay so Announces in House and Denies Repudiation of Measure by Secretary Baker.

By United Press. Washington, March 18—President Wilson has approved the Hay army reorganization bill, Chairman of the house military committee, declared in the house today.

Hay also stated that Secretary Baker has approved the bill, denying Baker's letter to Representative Gardiner constituted a repudiation.

Peter Dressendorfer, of Redding township, was in Seymour today on business. He is still suffering from the injury to his shoulder sustained in a fall several months ago. Mr. and Mrs. Dressendorfer will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary Monday, April 3. They are among the oldest residents in the county.

Several men at Bedford have been arrested for the theft of a large amount of brass from the cars of the Southeastern Line. The metal was taken from the boxings on cars left on the sidetracks. Several parties have been suspected of the theft and were shadowed until evidence could be secured against them.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Julian and children went to Bedford this afternoon to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Fred Bailey, who died Friday evening at a hospital in Richmond following an operation. The funeral services will be held in Bedford Sunday.

Mrs. C. M. Ingram has received word from Topeka, Kans. that her mother, Mrs. E. W. Donaldson, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is better and hopes for her recovery are entertained.

John V. Dehler has returned home from attending the convention of Retail Dealers at Indianapolis. He was accompanied by his brother, Andrew Dehler, of Madison, who returned to his home this morning.

AMERICAN TROOPS, SEEKING VILLA, LONG ANXIOUS TO CROSS BORDER

Entire Nation Supports President in Determination to Get Outlaw, Dead or Alive.

Tedious Task Ahead, but It Is Not Expected to Take Years to End the Reign of Lawlessness.

WHEN President Wilson ordered the United States army to cross the Mexican border and avenge the death of American citizens the nation almost to a man spontaneously arose and put its entire strength and hearty support squarely behind the president. There was not a word of objection heard on any side. The patience of the American people had been sorely tested until it could resist no longer.

"Villa dead or Villa alive"—that was the motto of the troops who had long been on the border. They were anxious to get Villa and had been wishing for this opportunity for many months. It is significant to note just here, however, that when the men returned to American soil after having crossed the border in pursuit of the bandits who burned and shot up Columbus, N. M., one of them remarked, "We took no prisoners."

Purely Punitive Expedition.

The sovereignty of Mexico will not be affected. The expedition is purely a punitive one, and this country is not making war on any one except the band of outlaws who have for years infested the hills of the troublesome republic and robbed, murdered, looted and fought for a living. The masses of people in Mexico have been ruled by these bandits.

The United States is going to free the poor Mexicans and give them opportunity to earn a living for themselves without the risk of having their property stolen and the thieves going unpunished. Provisional President Carranza is expected to co-operate with the United States army and hem in Villa and his band from the south while our troops surround him on three sides. Carranza was not consulted, however, before the orders to get Villa were issued.

It is not going to be such an easy matter to get Villa. Army men agree on this point. They do not expect a battle with the bandits, but fear that the band will disperse and hide out in the fastness of the mountains and take pot shots at our men. The supply of ammunition in Villa's hands is known to be scanty, and it is believed he will soon exhaust it. One of the most interesting features of the expedition will be the part played by our aviators. It is expected that scouting machines will be sent over the hills in the efforts to locate the Villa hiding places.

The expedition is mainly a cavalry force. Infantry could not cover territory rapidly enough. There were about 8,000 cavalymen distributed along the border and about 4,000 at other stations in the United States.

The army has only six field artillery regiments, and only two of these are mountain artillery—the Second and the Fourth. The Second field artillery (mountain) is in the Philippine Islands. Only the Fourth field artillery (mountain) is in the United States. The entire regiment of the Fourth field artillery is at Fort Bliss, El Paso, except Battery D, which is at Progresso, Tex.

In the column which is expected to move from El Paso toward the Laguna region of Chihuahua the Fourth field artillery is expected to be one of the units. Some, if not all, of the Sixth field artillery may be sent. This is light horse artillery, and its guns are howitzers of the 4.7 inch type. The cannons are mounted on horses and could traverse the country handily. Howitzers would be more available than the 3.2 inch rapid fire guns with which the First, Third and Fifth field artillery regiments are equipped. The First field artillery is stationed at Hawaii, and the Fifth field artillery, except Battery A, at Fort Bliss, Texas, is at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

President Wilson is commander in chief of the army. The ranking officer next to General Frederick Funston in the southern division is Brigadier General John J. Pershing. Other high officers of the border patrol and the troops they command are:

First cavalry brigade, Brigadier General James Parker, commanding; headquarters at Fort Sam Houston.

Second cavalry brigade, Colonel George A. Dodd, commanding; headquarters at Douglas, Ariz.

Third cavalry brigade, Brigadier General George Bell, Jr., commanding; headquarters at San Antonio, Tex.

Fourth cavalry brigade, Brigadier General Thomas F. Davis, commanding; headquarters at Douglas, Ariz.

Fifth cavalry brigade, Brigadier General John J. Pershing, commanding; headquarters at Camp Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex.

General Pershing commands the troops in the field.

The offhand opinion of officers of the general staff was that at least five regiments of cavalry and one regiment of mountain artillery should be combined in one force under General Pershing. Some of the older officers favored a division which would represent approximately 12,000 men and 700 officers.

There are at present approximately 19,000 men on the border and 15,000 other mobile troops in the United States exclusive of the coast artillery corps. None of the plans includes a proposal to disturb any of the coast artillery corps.

Army officers consider it highly indiscreet even to consider the removal of any of the already short consignments of men from the coast artillery division because of the general international situation. In the event that it is necessary to send more men to the border than are now available in the mobile army it is probable that some of the cavalry regiments of the militia may be called upon.

Secrecy on Operations.

Secrecy will be maintained by the general staff as to the movements of troops in pursuit of Villa. General Funston, who has shown that he is aware of the necessity for concealing such military information, is expected to maintain a rigid censorship when the punitive expedition enters upon its real campaign.

Preparations for the larger scope of the expedition include arrangements to enlist the national guard for patrolling the border. Of the 120,000 in the militia it is estimated that from 30 to 50 per cent can be raised for that purpose. This will allow of the use of from 20,000 to 30,000 troops in Mexico at an early stage of the campaign if the situation develops as is now expected. Portions of the coast artillery will be available. A call for volunteers is not the remotest idea engaging the attention of the general staff.

Barring the capture of Villa by a "stroke of luck" which would reduce the punitive plans of the government to something in the nature of a cursory invasion to disperse surviving Villistas, the general staff has to plan for the hemming in of northern Mexico. The Atlantic and Pacific oceans will do well enough to hem in that territory on the east and west. The national guard is entirely equal to the necessity of patrolling the border and assisting in keeping open the lines of communication for the troops advancing south.

What's Villa going to do? Presumably he is not going to trail with more than a few followers when he is hard pressed. He may travel for awhile with from 2,000 to 3,000 men, but he will very soon be content with a couple of hundred, later with a score and finally with half a dozen he can trust not to betray him. When he has reduced his force to that number he will have confronted the general staff with a needle in the haystack problem.

Needle In Haystack Problems.

Finding the needle—or the bumblebee—ought not to be an endless matter. There isn't a man who knows northern Mexico but believes that Funston is equal to it. "It may be a game of hide and seek with a lot of casualties mixed in," say men from that country, "but Funston will find what he is after."

It is possible to overestimate the matter in hand, as it is possible to underestimate it. Take the problem involved, if the ring is made around northern Mexico or even if it hasn't been made and Villa has taken to the mountains. The Mexicans are poor fighters except of a sort. They have a limited supply of ammunition. They are not good shots.

ton pursued a band of raiding Apaches into Mexico.

Daniel Webster as secretary of state accepted the "hot trail" principle in negotiating with Canadian authorities in 1842 during the Fenian troubles in Canada.

In two instances General Andrew Jackson headed punitive expeditions into Florida while that territory was a Spanish possession. One was against a filibustering faction based on Amelia Island and operating against the United States. The other resulted in the destruction of the town of St. Marc, which had been the base of a Creek Indian expedition against the United States and involved the hanging by United States troops of a British subject who General Jackson charged was employed by the Creeks as a spy. The British government investigated that incident, but never protested.

Officials recalled many other instances where the "hot trail" principle had been invoked in some form by this and other governments and declared there could be no doubt of its applicability in the case of Villa.

PERISCOPES PUT ON MINES.

Germans Thus Seek to Discourage Ramming of U Boats.

A new German idea is reported by Captain B. J. Keely of the British steamship Katild, just arrived in Baltimore from Liverpool.

According to Captain Keely, the Germans, knowing that the British authorities have offered a reward of $2,500 for any skipper who rams a submarine, have built a great number of mines with a pipe projecting above the water, which looks exactly like a periscope, and set them adrift.

Along comes the British steamer and sees the periscope. With his choice, as he thinks, between $2,500 and a torpedo in his ship's side, he promptly rams the supposed submarine—and is instantly blown up.

Captain Keely says many British ships have already undergone this unfortunate experience and that he himself saw one of the deceptive mines, which was picked up by a patrol boat.

Four Ton Clock Wheel.

A four ton clock wheel about twenty feet in diameter was recently conveyed to the summit of Mount Wilson, California, for use in the Carnegie observatory. The wheel, which is for driving the hundred inch telescope, will be attached to a solid steel shaft nearly two feet in diameter, which will revolve with the exact speed of the earth, but in the opposite direction.

DORT

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC STARTING AND LIGHTING SYSTEM

The DORT Five-Passenger Touring Car, sturdily built and absolutely dependable, represents the most and the best in light car construction.

- the high speed long stroke motor possesses wonderful power and flexibility. The dual exhaust eliminates back pressure.
- the cooling system is most efficient—large water jackets completely surround each cylinder and each valve cage. This insures a cool motor under every condition of hard and fast driving.
- it has the well known Connecticut Battery Type Ignition which delivers the hottest spark at low speed and on hard pulls. This means power when you need it.
- it has the Jacox irreversible steering gear which holds the car to the road and means ease of handling.
- the long 50 1-8 inch cantilever springs in the rear give great riding comfort and economy on tires.
- combined brake and clutch, automatic release of emergency brake; aerodynamic fan, one man top of genuine mohair and hair top holders, crown fenders, electric horn with knee button, are "big car" touches which lift the Dort into exclusiveness.

Dort Motor Car Company
Flint, Michigan

Remember These Five Facts About the Dort.

SIMPLICITY: Simplicity has been the keynote of Dort design. Not one extra ounce of weight has been employed in its production; not an added unnecessary part to be paid for, carried and not used.

ACCESSIBILITY: The dimensions and sizes of each part were studied with great care, the main purpose being to get just enough weight to give strength, with ample provision for a reasonable margin of safety. Each working part of this remarkable car is available for easy adjustment if necessary.

DURABILITY: Every owner of a Dort realizes to the last cent on his investment in motor car service—paying only for those dollars of value that will work for him. Thus he is insured of lasting satisfaction and of permanent return day by day on his investment.

ROADABILITY: The weight is so distributed that the Dort "holds the road" at all speeds. Something that you seldom find in a car of the so-called light class. Ask for demonstration.

DELIVERIES: On account of a factory increase in production immediate deliveries can be made. See the Dort before you buy a car.

PERSHING WAS PROMOTED OVER HEADS OF 862 OFFICERS

Roosevelt Thought Enough of Work in Philippines to Ignore Customs.

Brigadier General John J. Pershing, who is in active command of the American forces now seeking the capture of Pancho Villa, first gained fame in 1906 when his American troops and Filipino scouts drove the rebellious Moros under Dato Amil from their last stronghold in Bagasag mountains, island of Jolo. For this feat he was made a brigadier general by President Roosevelt, who jumped him over the heads of 862 ranking officers. There was some protest at this appointment, but Roosevelt thought his feat in the Philippines was worthy of the rapid advancement.

His is the story of a keen faced, blue eyed man of peace, who makes soldiering his business. He likes peace best of all, but when it comes to a fight—well, look out for Pershing! He believes in making peace quite to be desired. Ask the Moros of Mindanao, in the Philippines, and they will tell you that Pershing is a mighty nice man—when he isn't fighting.

General Pershing was born on Sept. 13, 1859, and entered West Point from Missouri in 1882, graduating in 1886. He has always since served in the cavalry. He did his bit of work in the piping times of peace and fought gallantly in the Sioux rampuses in 1890 and 1891, against Geronimo and in the Wounded Knee campaign. He took part in the Santiago fight and then went to the Philippines.

He fought his regulation share of Philippine fights and came out unscathed. Then came the orders from Washington to make the Moros peaceful. And to Captain John J. Pershing, Fifteenth cavalry, was assigned the job of pacifying.

Hither and yon he went. Sometimes he was holding out the olive branch here, sometimes handing out three pound shells there, with Krag bullets on the side. Whenever he found a friendly village Pershing was the friendliest person in it.

The leading dattos were invited to his tent. They had the seats of honor at the officers' mess. They were consulted on the way they would like to have things done. Whenever there was an orderly, law abiding community it was allowed to administer its own government unhampered by the Americans.

He was promptly put on the new general staff of the army. When the Japs and the Russians fell to fighting Pershing was dispatched to Manchuria as military observer with Kuroki's forces. What he saw there has been of benefit to the American army since. And the mikado bestowed upon him for his services the fourth class Order of the Sacred Treasure. Next he was made military attaché at Tokyo.

But fighting and pacifying and observing didn't make the gallant cavalryman immune to Cupid's darts. He soon succumbed to the charms of Miss Helen Frances Warren, only daughter of Senator Warren of Wyoming, chairman of the committee on military affairs.

FIND MANY PRECEDENTS FOR PURSUIT OF VILLA

Jackson Invaded Florida, Then Owned by Spain, on Two Occasions.

In ordering United States troops into Mexico to hunt down Villa's bandit army President Wilson acted on the principle of international law sanctioning punitive expeditions against factions in a foreign state which cannot be or are not prevented by the constituted authorities of that state from attacking its neighbors.

Authorities on international law and practice pointed to many precedents witnessing the general acceptance of this principle. It was written into the treaty of 1890 between the United States and Mexico, which now has lapsed, in the form of a provision under which the military forces of either country could pursue marauders across the international line where "a hot trail" existed. Even before this treaty was negotiated, however, General Law-

SHIVELY FUNERAL IS HELD

Services Were Held From Residence of the Late Senator.

South Bend, Ind., March 18.—Delegations from the Wilson and Bryan club, the St. Joseph Bar association, a committee appointed by Mayor Fred W. Keller and representatives of other organizations met the special train bearing the body of the late United States Senator Benjamin F. Shively, members of his family, Vice President and Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall and the delegation of senators and congressmen which arrived here from Washington.

The body of the senator was taken immediately to the Shively residence, the vice president and his wife accompanying the family to the home. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock and was private. Business was suspended in this city and Mishawaka, as well as throughout the public offices of Indiana. Governor Ralston and party arrived here this morning.

The Rev. C. A. Lippincott, pastor of the First Presbyterian church officiated at the service.

A huge wreath of flowers from the White House conservatories, sent by President Wilson, covered the casket. Flowers were also sent to the train by members of the cabinet, many senators and others.

RESORT TO GRAFTING SKIN

Physicians Fear Life of Lawrenceville Women Can Not Be Saved.

Vincennes, Ind., March 18.—Physicians are preparing to begin at once a series of operations for skin-grafting as a last effort to save the life of Mrs. Thomas Owen, at Lawrenceville, where she is in a hospital, in a critical condition, from burns suffered several days ago.

More than two square feet of skin surface is to be treated, physicians said, and nearly 2,000 small pieces of skin will be needed to complete the operation. It is very uncertain, the physicians say, that Mrs. Owen's life can be saved.

HEALTH OFFICIALS ORGANIZE

Favor Legislation For Better Inspection of Milk and Meat.

Indianapolis, March 18.—Fifty state and city health, food, sanitary and drug inspectors, meeting at the state house, perfected an organization to be known as the Indiana Health Inspectors' association. Dr. H. G. Morgan, city sanitation of Indianapolis, was elected president. Other officers named were A. W. Hedrich, East Chicago, vice president, and Harry S. Truitt, Columbus, secretary.

The new association went on record as being in favor of a law providing for compulsory pasteurization of milk.

Take Lizard From Man's Stomach.

Mt. Vernon, O., March 16.—Madison Bedell was relieved of a four-inch, fully developed lizard. For three years he has at frequent intervals suffered scratching sensations in his stomach and chest. He believes he swallowed the reptile when he was drinking from a creek.

MAYOR WILL ASK NEW TRIAL

Jury Unable to Agree In Case Against Toledo (O.) Official.

Toledo, O., March 18.—Unable to agree after deliberating fifty-four hours, the jury in the case of former Mayor Carl H. Keller was dismissed.

Mr. Keller announced immediately that he would ask for a new trial, seeking vindication. He was tried on a charge of accepting a bribe in connection with the purchase of city fire apparatus. The trial lasted several days, during which many prominent men of Toledo and Cleveland testified. Mr. Keller held office one term, having succeeded Brand Whitlock, former American minister to Belgium.

Wives Are Luxuries.

Washington, March 18.—Wives are regarded as luxuries by the United States government. A decision rendered by the comptroller of the treasury to the secretary of agriculture holds that government employees on public business are allowed only half the expense incurred when they occupied sections in sleeping cars or double hotel rooms.

WATCH GERMAN REICHSTAG

Interest In Submarine Issue Debate Overshadows Other Issues.

Washington, March 18.—The news from Berlin that the submarine controversy with the United States is to be threshed out next week in the reichstag, overshadows every other phase of the submarine issue in official circles. It is fully believed that Germany will yield to or defy the United States, according to the reichstag's decision. To what extent this decision will be moulded by the kaiser and the military remains a matter of the most animated diplomatic discussion, though the consensus of well-informed opinion is that the kaiser's wishes will dominate the situation.

In support of this prediction diplomats say that even in times of peace, the military party has invariably prevailed in the reichstag whenever any question affecting the safety of the empire was at stake.

BULGARIANS MAY REVOLT

Bombs Were Placed Under the Royal Palace, It Is Declared.

London, March 18.—A special dispatch from Rome asserts that a military revolt is imminent in Bulgaria. The populace is growing restless, the dispatch said.

A number of bombs have been discovered under the Bulgarian royal palace, at Sofia, according to other dispatches from Rome. Many arrests are reported to have been made.

LITTLE REGARD FOR TRUTH.

"I guess we will have to have a prohibition press agent for the state," remarked Governor Capper of Kansas to a representative of the Kansas City (Mo.) Journal, as he ran through a big raft of letters and communications regarding prohibition.

"It is remarkable how little regard for truth some people have," said the governor. "For instance, here is a man in Brooklyn, writing to the New York Tribune, solemnly stating that during his residence in Kansas from 1905 to 1913 he saw more boys under sixteen years old drunk in this state than he had seen men drunk in other states in all his life. Just think of such an absurd statement. He also says that the hotels in all the big towns of the state pay monthly fines for handling liquor. As a matter of fact there isn't a single hotel in Kansas paying monthly fines; nor in fact are monthly fines being charged anywhere. The supreme court knocked that system out nine years ago.

"All sorts of arguments are put up by the wets against prohibition, but there are two points they ignore. One is that Kansas is well pleased with prohibition, regardless of what others may think of her; the other is that if a man can't spend his nickel for a glass of beer he has that nickel with which to buy a loaf of bread for his family."

GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL AND MODERN PROBLEMS.

THE life we are able to live, of peace, security and decency, wherein property is respected, virtue exalted and human life is safe, we owe to Jesus Christ. All that is fair and ennobling in our modern civilization we must trace, soon or late, to the manger of Bethlehem. The Sunday school recognizes its obligation as well as its privilege to give to the state as well as the individual, the messages that enable both to enjoy the privileges above suggested.

The Sunday school is largely aiding in the process of Christianizing the national conscience, the substituting of the social interest for the individual. Graft and corruption in public life or in vast corporations begin in the tendency to subordinate public service to personal aggrandizement. Against this there is a growing revolt. Government and position are not for a favored few and the Sunday school is teaching that "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." The sovereignty of Jesus will transform any country. Again the Sunday school is one of the great means of humanizing our social organization. The disregard for life and property in our modern society is appalling. Carelessness, greed and exploitation are reaping a harvest of human life, squalor, disease and penury that ought to touch and arouse every heart. The reign of Jesus confers a new value upon life. In His Kingdom the brutality of the social organism will disappear if he is obeyed. Selfishness and competition which is the root of most of the strife will give way to co-operation and brotherhood.

Already we are learning that the interest of one affects the mass and it is the Sunday school that is teaching the principles of that time and day when the "Lion will lie down with the lamb." It is not might, the preparedness of navies and armies, that makes a nation great, but right exalteth any people. Long after militarism and lust for trade and land have faded, the Babe of Bethlehem will reign and rule.

Finally the Sunday school is exalting our estimate of the value and significance of childhood. Socially we often despair of doing real things with adults and turn to the beginnings of life. The Sunday school has a unique and a distinctive share in the work of capturing the next generation and through it of establishing a new commonwealth. Its work has to do with the destinies of the nations of time as well as of eternity.

QUESTION NATIONALIZED.

"I have been forced to the conclusion that the only effective way to deal with the liquor question is by and through the action of the national government," is the declaration of United States Senator Borah of Idaho. "The liquor interests themselves have nationalized the question. The large distilleries and manufacturing of intoxicating liquors supply every state in the Union from some particular manufacturing plant so that it becomes in every sense a matter of interstate concern and a matter which can be effectively controlled and regulated through the national government which alone can deal with interstate matters."

"If I had felt that it could be dealt with by the states alone I would have much preferred to see it dealt with in that way. But I feel sure that it has passed beyond the control of the states and has become a national question in every sense, economically, commercially and politically."

BOOZER A POOR PATRON.

A letter purporting to come from a business agency, asking for the credit ratings of certain men, was received by a banker. Discovering that it came from a liquor dealer, he replied as follows:

"The fact that you did not state the nature of your business led me to suspect that you were asking in the interest of the liquor business. If my suspicions are correct, I do not blame you for being ashamed to show your flag. I pity you for being in the business at all. I know the men referred to but have no specific information for you. I know this much, which I am willing to tell you, that they would have better credit in this bank if they did not use your stuff. "As a bank, we know that the man who is a good patron of your business is a poor patron of ours."

WANTED, A NATION-WIDE POLICY.

The policy of prohibition has failed to achieve among us in the past an adequate success, because wherever tried it has been only prohibition in spots! But sanitation in spots—vaccination, quarantine, sewerage, pure water supply only here and there—such an arrangement would not give us a satisfactory improvement in public health. Nothing will do but a policy of public hygiene that is nationwide. Just so with prohibition, a necessity to public health, moral and physical. The liquor power can only be struck at its vital center when hit by a national law. That blow given and then scores of minor evils, caused by drink, that cannot otherwise be reached will disappear.—The Congressionalist.

HAS LARGE BALANCE.

The treasurer of Kalamazoo county, Michigan, the county in which is situated the city of the same name, reports a balance of $25,728 for the year ending September 30, 1915. This balance is significant when it is remembered that the county went dry on May 1 of that year and thereby forfeited $20,000 in liquor license revenue. For the year ending September 30, 1914, the balance amounted to only $6,878.30, practically $19,000 less than for 1915, although the county treasurer received for 1914 the liquor license revenue which was forfeited the following year.

BEER WORSE THAN WHISKY.

This is what the Home Life Insurance company of New York has to say about beer:

"Of all intoxicating drinks, it is the most animalizing. It dulls the intellectual and moral and feeds the sensual and beastly nature. Beyond all other drinks, it qualifies for deliberate and unprovoked crime. In this respect it is much worse than distilled liquors. A whisky drinker will commit murder only under the direct excitement of liquor, a beer drinker is capable of doing it in cold blood. Long observation has assured us that a large proportion of murders deliberately planned and executed, without passion or malice, with no other motive than the acquisition of property or money, often of trifling value, are perpetrated by beer drinkers."

TO THE VOTER.

Which of your boys do you intend Shall stand in the footprints of ruined men? Will you help them to enter a life of woe Because of your votes? Oh, no! Oh, no! If you vote for saloons, I verily fear You'll have to support them; so now look here Which of your boys are you going to give To ruin and death, that saloons may live?

A Specific Against Colds.

The nearest thing to a specific against colds is a sleeping porch or open bed room and a cold sponge bath every morning when you first get up. Even then you will occasionally take a cold, especially when colds are epidemic, and when you do you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a great help in enabling you to get rid of it. Try it. Obtainable everywhere.

Cartoons Magazine.

How the American cartoonists and editorial writers view the U-boat situation, and the backing up of President Wilson by Congress; the defense plans now under discussion; the German drive at Verdun, and the Russian victories in Asia Minor, may be seen in the April Cartoons Magazine. A number of highly imaginative and humorous German cartoons throw some light on Germany's dreams of an Egyptian conquest. The British cartoons deal mostly with the blockade and the attempts on John Bull's part to effect a saving. Several cartoons from the newspapers in Athens interpret the Balkan situation at first hand. These drawings, while crude, doubtless are a criterion of public sentiment in Greece.

Keep Your Bowels Regular.

As everyone knows, the bowels are the sewerage system of the body, and it is of the greatest importance that they move once each day. If your bowels become constipated, take a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets just after supper and they will correct the disorder. Obtainable everywhere.

Abandoning the Philippines.

From the international standpoint, the Philippines are as much a part of the territory of the United States as India is a part of the British Empire. It would, perhaps, be easier to organize a safe and responsible independent government in India than in the Philippines. Few sensible people in this country regard our continued presence in the Philippines from the standpoint of what Bryan and the Democratic platform call "imperialism." We are engaged there in a great work of education, health improvement, agricultural direction, good policing, and honest taxation. Foreign interests have important rights of property and of commerce in the Islands, and these are Spanish, French, English, German, Japanese, and Chinese, as well as American. Colonel Roosevelt and many Republican leaders believe that the Democrats have created a situation that makes our remaining at Manila practically impossible, and that we must therefore withdraw as soon as we can honorably do so. But it is plain that the Democrats must accept responsibility for the consequences. As for "imperialism," the worst form of it is involved in the doctrine of the last Democratic platform, which demands that we must abandon all our good work for the welfare of the Filipino people, but must appropriate and keep for ourselves certain desirable coaling stations and naval bases. This is imperialism of the bad kind. What England is doing for the people of Egypt and the Sudan represents imperialism at its best, although Englishmen tell us that nothing they are doing is quite as good as the work we have done in the Philippines, particularly in teaching the people to govern their own towns and villages, besides giving them security, trade education, and protection from epidemic diseases. The Senate talked loosely and much about "guaranteeing" the independence of the Philippines, and then dropped the idea of a manifest absurdity.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for March, 1916.

TWENTY YEARS.

This issue closes twenty years' business in Seymour for the present publisher of the Republican. For nearly fourteen years Edward A. Remy was associated in the publication under the firm name of Smith & Remy. When Mr. Remy became postmaster Harry J. Martin purchased an interest in the Republican and the firm became Smith and Martin. For the last four years the present publisher has been the sole owner of the paper.

In the opening statement twenty years ago the new owners in speaking of their relations to Seymour and vicinity said:

"Our interests are mutual and we can work best together by having a thorough acquaintance with each other and each other's needs. The paper shall stand always for the business interests of the entire community. Anything that will make Seymour a better city and Jackson a better county will receive the hearty support and encouragement of the Republican."

"As opportunity offers we shall endeavor to improve the appearance and make-up of the Republican. We have not come to Seymour to stand still but to advance as rapidly as circumstances will permit."

This forecast has been followed steadily during the twenty years. In mechanical make-up the paper today bears little resemblance to the paper of those days. Then all type was set by hand. The Daily Republican consisted of four pages of seven columns each and the Weekly four pages of eight columns. With the issue of May 18, 1899 the Weekly was enlarged to eight pages of six columns and July 1, 1907 the Daily was enlarged to eight pages, with occasional twelve and sixteen page editions. During the last six years two linotypes have been installed, two years ago a United Press news service was begun, and numerous other features have been added to improve the paper.

The statement of twenty years ago which has been verified during this period, still stands for it is still the purpose to make further improvements "as rapidly as circumstances will permit."

The Republican has become a growing factor in the community's life. It has always "boosted" to the limit of its ability in every movement to better the business or social life of the city and county. Pride has been taken in its news service with a corps of local editors and reporters who allow nothing to escape their notice, and a half hundred correspondents over the county who see that their neighborhood news is properly chronicled. During the years to come the same high standard will be maintained and surpassed when possible.

Two words of appreciation should be given: one to the business men and citizens of Seymour and Jackson county for their constant courtesy and their growing patronage which has made possible the steady improvement of the Republican. This improvement has been of mutual advantage because it enables the merchant to reach more people at a smaller cost per capita than formerly, and because the reader secures news features that were formerly impossible. The paper will continue its policy of giving to its patrons a big dollar's value for every hundred cents of its income.

The other word of appreciation belongs to the employees who have given faithful and intelligent help in making the Republican what it is today. Only one employee has been with the office during all of the twenty years. All others have changed and several positions have had many changes, but all along there has been an active and loyal enthusiasm that has added greatly to the service the paper has been able to give to the community.

During the coming years Seymour will continue to grow and improve. Along with this improvement the Republican will continue its efforts to keep pace with the improvement in the city and when possible to have a share in leading this advancement.

SENATORIAL RACE.

The action of Will H. Hays, Republican state chairman, in withdrawing from the race for nomination for United States senator for the short term and accepting the chairmanship of the state committee for another term, indicates that James E. Watson, will be named by the state convention as the candidate to succeed the late Senator Benjamin F. Shively. In withdrawing from the field Hays shows his loyalty to the Republican party. In a statement he says that he has not completed the work which was mapped out for him when he was elected state chairman two years ago.

Will H. Hays deserves a large share of the credit for the success of the Republican party. He has recognized that the management of the party must be left to the members and in every action he has been guided by the will of the majority of the party. He has been chairman of the state organization in every sense of the word. His work has been clean, cut and with him at the helm of the Republican ship the goal of victory can be easily reached.

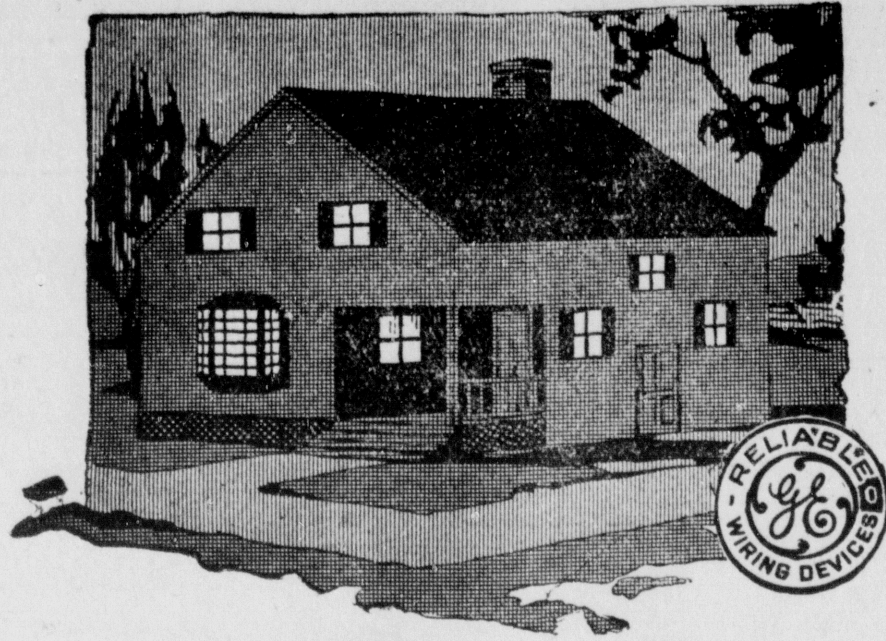

Mr. Hays' withdrawal from the senatorial race, it is believed, opens the way for the nomination of Mr. Watson. Many of the delegates to the convention will give him their vote. Mr. Watson has traveled over the state in his campaign for the nomination for the long term, and has many warm supporters who desire to see him elected to the great law-making body in the world.

TEACHERS ASSOCIATION WILL MEET IN OCTOBER

Many Prominent Educators to Give Addresses at Annual Session in Indianapolis.

The 1916 meeting of the Indiana State Teachers' Association will be held October 26, 27, 28, according to announcements from George A. Buck, principal of Shortridge high school, following a meeting of the executive committee of the association, which was held in the office of Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction.

The meeting will be held in Indianapolis, according to present plans, the state superintendent's office announced. Many educators from all parts of the country have responded to letters from the executive committee and have signified that they will attend the meetings here and appear on the various programs.

AMBASSADOR SHEA TO LEAVE SHORTLY

Attends Funeral of the Late Senator
Benjamin F. Shively and Will Then go to Washington.

TO SAIL FOR CHILE IN MONTH

In Meantime He will Confer with Secretary Lansing to Familiarize Himself with Duties.

Ambassador Joseph H. Shea, of this city, who was recently appointed to the diplomatic post in Chile, attended the funeral of the late Senator Benjamin F. Shively in South Bend today. A close bond of friendship existed between Ambassador Shea and the late senator for many years. Their association extended beyond the field of politics. However, the local man was a prominent figure around the Indiana legislative hall at the time the Democratic legislature voted in caucus to elect the deceased senator to his place of honor and dignity. Ambassador Shea, then circuit judge of this judicial district, was largely instrumental in the success of Senator Shively and the latter never forgot the services rendered by the local man.

Senator Shively spoke in this city several times during his career as congressman and during his race for governor of Indiana on the Democratic ticket. It is recalled that he delivered the commencement address for the class of 1902 of the Shields high school. He had many political friends here.

After the funeral of Senator Shively in South Bend Ambassador Shea will leave for Washington to make preparations for his trip to Santiago to begin his duties in the diplomatic service of the United States government. Before he can depart it will be necessary for him to familiarize himself in a general way with the new duties which will devolve upon him. He will confer with the state department many times before sailing for Santiago so that he can at once take up the work. He expects to leave the United States for Chile in about a month.

The diplomatic post in Chile is one of extreme importance at this time because of the new trade relations which are being established between the United States and the South American countries. The Pan-American congress has done much to encourage this trade and a heavy responsibility rests on the ambassadors to the South American countries to further develop and perpetuate it. Ambassador Shea, it is understood, will not overlook this responsibility and will give his attention to the new business possibilities.

Rebekahs!

KOKOMO TEAM WINS
WITH LONG SHOTS

blew Vincennes got another basket and the game.

Coach Merle Abbett, of Manual Training H. S., Indianapolis, one of the referees, sat on the side lines and smiled every time a Hopewell player made a basket in their game with Lafayette. Abbett coached Hopewell last year, and was pulling for his former charges to win. Both Abbet and Westover, the other official, are running their games off in admirable fashion. Both are exceptionally capable officials.

Lebanon supporters were much put out over their team's defeat, as they had counted on being in the finals. It looks as though Kokomo, Martinsville and Crawfordsville have three of the strongest teams, and one of the trio is almost certain to be returned the winner.

Stonebraker, the Wabash star who made a name for himself with the Wingate team two years ago at the tournament, had a ringside seat, and didn't miss a game all day. He was accompanied by his team mate, De Vol, who was watching his brother on the Lebanon team perform.

Indiana's new gymnasium will not come any too soon. The present one is antiquated, and is not large enough to accommodate crowds for gatherings such as this.

The Seymour team, in their new sweaters, put up one of the best appearances of any team on the floor during the day. The big crowd, having sat through three games, was getting restless, however, and many left before the game was called.

All of Indiana's athletes managed to arrange not to have any classes yesterday, and donned their monogram sweaters and decorated the stage and the side lines.

Chic Jackson Coming.

The Roger Bean entertainer at the First Baptist church next Tuesday evening will not consist of impersonations of the Bean family by local people. Chic Jackson, the clever cartoonist of the Indianapolis Star, will be here in person and draw his cartoons of Roger Bean, Mrs. Bean, Woody, Golduh, Clarunz, et al. He will be assisted by Mr. Everett Davis, seissors caricaturist, who will cut a whole menagerie out of paper. Nothing could furnish more amusement for the children. In addition there will be some musical numbers by local talent. An evening of wholesome fun is promised to all.

Make Your Savings
Earn Money

The Cooperative Building and Loan Association will start Series L Monday, April 3, giving citizens of Seymour another opportunity to place their savings each week where the money will earn steady and sure dividends.

Last year the Cooperative earned over 7 per cent. for its stockholders, and every member, whether a borrower or investor shared in the earnings just in proportion to the amount of stock held.

By saving 25 cents per week for a little over six years the payments made and the earnings amount to $100.00 when the stock matures. If for any reason it is impossible to continue the payments, the stock may be withdrawn at any time and the stockholder receives all the earnings up to the time of withdrawal.

There is no safer investment. There is no better plan to have your weekly savings earn money for you. There is no easier way to secure a home or accumulate a sum of money, than by the building and loan plan.

See the Secretary Thos. J. Clark and take stock in the new Series L.

Killing the Golden Egg Goose

The merchant who attempts substitution for a well known brand is killing the goose that lays the golden egg.

The merit of the brand and the advertising behind it brought in a customer.

The inferior substitute has probably driven that same customer away for good.

Incidentally, it has injured a reputable manufacturer.

The customer is right in avoiding the store that makes a practice of offering "something just as good."

AN OLD-TIME NURSE
CURED

Of Catarrh of the Stomach by Peruna

MRS. SELENA TANNER,
Athens, Ohio.

This Cure Dates From October 3, 1899.

Oct. 3, 1899 —"Catarrh of the stomach. Was nearly starved. After taking Peruna I have a good appetite."
Sept. 11, 1904 —"I can assure you that I am still a friend of Peruna. My health is still good."
April 23, 1906 —"Yes, I am still a friend of Peruna. Will be as long as I live. I keep it in the house all the time."
Dec. 18, 1907 —"I recommend Peruna so often that they call me the Peruna doctor. Peruna recommends itself when once tried."
Dec. 27, 1908 —"I still tell everybody I can that Peruna is the best medicine in the world."
Aug. 15, 1909 —"Peruna saved my life years ago. I still take it when I have a cold."
Jan. 4, 1910 —"I was threatened with pneumonia. Peruna saved me."
May 17, 1912 —"I am glad to do anything I can for Peruna."
May 6, 1914 —"I have always been a nurse. Peruna has helped me in my work more than all other medicines."
Mar. 22, 1915 —"I have divided my bottle of Peruna with people many times. It always helps."

The above quotations give a vague glimpse of the correspondence we have had with Mrs. Tanner since 1899. Our files, which cover twenty-five years, include many similar correspondents.

CAVALRY CROSSES BORDER

Dodd's Command Is Hurrying to Join General Pershing.

San Antonio, Tex., March 18.—Gen. Funston has just announced that Col. C. A. Dodds, command consisting of cavalry, crossed the border near Culbertson's ranch, forty-five miles from Hachita, N. M. He refused to say what the strength was.

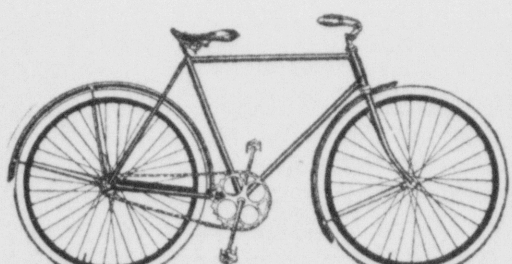

Dodd's command is hurrying to join Pershing. It will take three days to catch up. It was announced that infantry is following Pershing, but the number is not given. General Funston communicated with both commands by wireless and wire. It is expected that Pershing's forces will be in contact with Villa in a few days. Funston will probably not go to the front but will direct the campaign from here.

MORE TROOPS TO PERSHING'S AID

U. S. Army Makes Rapid Advance Into Mexico.

WILD RUMORS ARE HEARD

One Report Is Opposition From Carranza Troops—It Is Charged That German Spies on the Border Are Aiding Villa.

El Paso, Tex., March 18.—General John J. Pershing and the United States army invading Mexico for the purpose of effecting the capture of Pancho Villa and his band of bandits were reported between Janos and Asencion, north of Casas Grandes, a little more than half way to Casas Grandes from the American border line at Columbus, N. M., where entry was made. They were marching parallel with the Janos river.

The report came to the office of General Gabriel Gavira, commander of the Juaraz military garrison. General Gavira also reported that Villa and his men were believed to be between Galeana and San Buena Ventura. The latter place is forty-eight miles south-east of Casas Grandes.

Scouts returning to Columbus told passengers going through there on the train and arriving in El Paso that part of the American force was but ten miles over the Mexican line, "playing pinochle." It is supposed they referred to a command left by General Pershing to keep open his line of communication.

Passengers said as many troops are now in Columbus as before the departure of the Pershing expedition, and that these are expected to follow him south rapidly. Cavalry, artillery and aviation corps men are at work at Columbus drilling and preparing for active duty.

The erection of a big temporary hospital and other frame buildings to serve the base as storehouses, is in progress.

The passengers learned that the American army had overtaken some of Villa's ill-fed, starving abandoned horses and had mercifully shot them. The Americans discovered a number of dead Villistas, killed by the raid of the American cavalry a week ago on the march south from Columbus, during the first few miles covered in Mexico, according to returning couriers.

General Gavira announced in Juaraz when he gave the information regarding the whereabouts of Villa and the American troops, that this was the last information for the American press.

All sorts of wild stories were in circulation regarding the fate of American troops in Mexico, if they penetrated much further. One report heard in army circles was that several thousand Carranza troops, former Villistas, are waiting in a valley west of Casas Grandes and north of San Buena Ventura, ready to attack the American forces.

Villa on the Jump.

In Juaraz Villa is reported to be moving without rest into the Bachinava district from which he operated so successfully for a long period of years as a bandit.

While it was not officially stated at Juaraz, it was intimated that negotiations were going on between the Constitutionalists and American authorities relating to the distance into the interior which the American troops are to penetrate on their expedition.

"I see no reason for any alarm as to the Mormon colonists," said General Gavira, "Villa is now considerably southeast of the settlement and the garrisons in that vicinity are well manned and prepared to withstand any invasion by bandits, Villistas or otherwise."

General Pallas Calles wired the Mexican consulate in El Paso that a Villista spy had been placed under arrest at Dos Cabezas. He is alleged to have been at Columbus, on the morning of the massacre. The man's name is stated as being R. Panablos, and is said to have stated that Villa had retreated from Palomas to Corralitos and there assassinated seven cowboys because they would not give him horses.

From Corralitos, the spy said, Villa had gone through Chocolate pass, on his way to Galeana. He also said that Colonel Pablo Lopez, said to have been killed in the battlefield at Columbus, was alive with Villa, but had been shot through both legs.

Many of Villa's bandits who were wounded at Columbus and in the running fight across the desert with the Thirteenth cavalry, have died from their injuries in the long march from the border to Corralitos, and that more were dying as the column of three hundred or four hundred Villistas marched into the Galeana section, it is reported.

An interesting development in the situation was the sending of notification to the consulates for Mexico along the border by Leod Walker, editor of El Progreso at Laredo, Texas, that German spies are operating on the frontier and are in communication with the Villistas in the hope of diverting attention of Americans and American munitions from the European war.

THIS MAN HAS EASY JOB

Refuses to Quit Jail, Saying Job Is Best He Ever Had.

Muncie, Ind., March 18.—Albert O'Harra, sheriff, is still trying to "pry loose" Frank McLaughlin from the county jail. A friend paid McLaughlin's fine, but he steadfastly refuses to leave the jail until his sentence has been served, the sentence being for eleven days.

"I never had a better job than this," said McLaughlin. "All I have to do is a little scrubbing out in the morning and I have a good, warm place in which to sleep and a good place in which to eat and have plenty of things to eat in the bargain. Believe me, Sheriff O'Harra is the best landlord I've ever known."

There is a theory that the sheriff, who is known to be somewhat influenced by the pleadings of the unfortunate, may have been unduly influenced in this case, but he denies it. Nevertheless, the problem of getting rid of the man who wishes to stay in jail remains a perplexing question—to everybody except the prisoner.

GAVE HIS LIFE TO SEVER A CABLE

How British Commander Was Shot by Turkish Forces.

DIDN'T PASS OBSTRUCTION

Lieutenant Commander Cookson Chopped at Cable Turks Had Stretched Across Tigris River to Prevent His Advance Until Wounded in Seven Places—Forced to Turn Back.

How Lieutenant Commander Edgar Christopher Cookson, in command of the British gunboat Comet, during the advance up the Tigris river, attempted single handed to cut a steel cable which the Turks had stretched across the river as an obstruction is vividly told by a letter which one of the crew wrote to his mother and which was recently published in the English newspapers. While trying to cut the cable the gallant commander was shot seven times and died soon after reaching the deck of his vessel again. For his gallantry he received the Victoria cross.

In his letter the seaman explains that the Turks were heavily intrenched not far from Ali Gharbi. "During the time that we were bombarding them," he writes, "some of our troops and cavalry went inland to try to surround them. They nearly succeeded, but found the enemy a little too strong, though they captured 1,600 prisoners and about twenty guns. Just as it was getting dark our seaplane dropped on to the water alongside us and told Lieutenant Commander Cookson that the Turks were on the run."

"A little farther up the river they had placed obstructions so that we could not pass without clearing them away, giving them time to get away. This turned out to be the liveliest time I have had since the fighting started. Commander Cookson decided to go up and clear this obstruction and then give chase to the Turks. It was very dark when we started off, with the Shaitan and Sumana following."

Turks Open Hot Fire.

"When we got around the head of land the Turks opened fire with rifles, but we steamed right up to the obstruction. The Turks were then close enough to throw hand bombs, but luckily none of them reached the deck of the ship. The obstruction turned out to be a big cable stretched across the river with dhow made fast to it. An attempt was made to sink the center dhow with gunfire, but when this failed the commander ordered that we steam alongside of it."

"Commander Cookson, when he saw that the boat could not be sunk by firing, took an ax and leaped over the bows of the Comet on to the dhow. He chopped at the cable until he had to turn back, he was so badly wounded. He was shot in seven places, and when we dragged him back aboard his last words were: 'I am done. It is a failure. Return at full speed.' He never spoke afterward. We had six wounded, but none seriously."

"During that time we had not been silent. We fired at them with guns and rifles, and the Shaitan and the Sumana were also blazing away. Our troops ashore said it was a lovely sight to see the vessels with all their guns working. We must have frightened the Turks, because on going up again at daybreak after burying our officer we found that they had cleared out and retired farther up the river. We steamed after them, and when we reached Kut-el-Amara we found the cavalry there. This is the first place to which the army has got before the navy. Subsequently we received orders to pursue the flying Turks, and we forced the enemy to leave several dhows laden with stores, provisions and ammunition."

Stabbed by Fellow Patient.

Toledo, O., March 18.—Frank McLaren, sixty, was stabbed to death by a fellow inmate in the Toledo state hospital for the insane. The assailant was Joseph Barbara, twenty-seven, an Italian. The tragedy occurred at the breakfast table.

TEUTONS FAIL IN FIVE ATTACKS

Attempts to Gain Hold at Vaux Are Repulsed.

LULL IN VERDUN REGION

Heavy Artillery Fire Reported in the Demolup and Douaumont Regions—Important Operations Developing on Southern Part of Russian Front.

Paris, March 18.—Another determined effort was by the Germans during the night to capture the fort and village of Vaux to the north of Verdun. Large numbers of men were used by the attacking forces, who delivered five separate assaults against the positions. Each assault was broken down by the French fire-curtain and machine gun fire with heavy losses to the attackers.

The new attempt to break through the French defenses at this point was preceded by a renewal of violent artillery fire, directed against the fort and the whole system of French defenses in this sector. The German infantry debouched from its trenches under cover of the artillery and moved in sections against the village of Vaux, against the slopes leading up to the fort and against the French positions contesting a roadway southeast of the village.

All told, two attacks were made against the village, two against the slopes leading to the fort, and one to gain possession of the road.

There was no infantry action in the Verdun region. The artillery fire was intense in the Demolup and Douaumont regions, on the east bank of the Meuse and intermittent on the west bank and in the Woivre. The diminution of the fire on the west bank was noted during the night and reported in the communique which said that after the casualties suffered by the Germans attacking Le Mort Homme, no further attack had been made in the sector.

During the night a French detachment made a surprise attack on a salient of the German lines in the wood of Mortmartre, taking some prisoners.

Important operations may be developing along the southern part of the Russian front as Vienna reports increasing activity by the artillery on both sides. In Galicia the Russians have attacked along the Stripa, but without success, the Austrian war office declares.

The Italian offensive along the Isonzo is commanding increasing attention although Vienna's latest report on the situation declares the attacks on the Austrian lines have decreased in violence. The current statement by the Rome war office records counterattacks by the Austrians on positions newly won by the Italians. These are declared to have been repulsed.

Election Officers Ask For $2,184.

Crawfordsville, Ind., March 18.—The recent primary election cost Montgomery county $2,184.09, according to bills filed with the board of county commissioners by election officers from the twenty-three precincts of the county. However, this amount does not include the entire cost of the election, as there were many printing bills and other accounts.

STEAMER GOES DOWN OFF CAROLINA COAST

Twenty-One of Kanawha Crew Picked Up.

New York, March 18.—News was received in this city that the steamship Kanawha, bound from New York for Rio Janeiro, by way of Norfolk, Va., had sunk at sea. A boat load of sailors from the Kanawha was picked up by the steamer Santa Marta.

A wireless message from the Santa Marta, received by the United Fruit company, brought the news of the disaster. The message stated that the Kanawha sank off the South Carolina coast and that the Santa Marta had rescued twenty-one members of the crew.

Another boat load of the Kanawha sailors, consisting of the third officer and seven men, was still missing when the Santa Marta reported, but it was stated that the steamer is continuing the search for the missing men.

The Kanawha sailed from here March 11 for Norfolk, Port Arthur and Rio Janeiro with coal. She was a steel steamer of 2,182 tons gross, 243 feet long with 40 feet beam. She was built in 1902 at Port Huron and was owned by L. Powell of New Orleans. She was commanded by Captain Bertam A. Rigoulet. She was formerly in service on the great lakes.

Former Legislator Dies.

Springfield, O., March 18.—The Rev. L. H. Lorenz, seventy-two, former member of the Ohio legislature, and retired minister, is dead at his home here from a complication of diseases.

HAY ARMY BILL IS ATTACKED

Given Baptism of Fire In the House.

WILL PROBABLY BE PASSED

Letter From Secretary of War Baker Regarding Military Resources of the Country Used by Representative Gardner In Fight Against Measure.

Washington, March 18.—The Hay army bill, the first of the administration preparedness measures, has been given its baptism of fire in the house. Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, who fathered the preparedness movement, not only attacked the bill at all points, but used as the most effective weapon in his offense a letter written by Secretary of War Baker, demolishing the arguments put forward by Chairman Hay as to the military resources of the country.

There was nothing pacific about the letter of Secretary Baker, which Mr. Gardner read to the house. In it he riddled Mr. Hay's statement that there would be 1,324,790 men available for military service on the passage of the bill. By a process of elimination and direct deduction he reduced this impressive total to 473,700 men.

It soon developed that Mr. Baker did not write the letter that bears his name. It was prepared for his signature by a high officer of the army and was signed as a matter of routine by Mr. Baker on the second or third day after he had been inducted into office as secretary of war.

Friends of Mr. Baker insist that he did not know that the letter which was addressed to Mr. Gardner in response to an inquiry, was written in such a way as to invite controversy. They declare that an investigation will be ordered at once.

Shortly after the presentation of the letter Chairman Hay and Secretary Baker had a long conference. Afterward it was announced that there were no difficulties between the two men and that it was their purpose to work in close harmony.

It was later explained that the figures used in Mr. Hay's report were obtained from the office of the adjutant general, but that certain deductions made by him were slightly in error. The Baker letter was said to have been prepared by an officer connected with the war college, who is said to be hostile to the Hay bill.

Both houses of congress began to earnest the work of passing army reorganization legislation. The Chamberlain army bill was reported in the senate and announcement made that debate on it will be begun Monday. Spurred by developments in Mexico, leaders in both houses determined that the defense bill should have the right of way.

Representative Gardner was unsparing in denouncing the provisions of the house bill. He said it was a "conscientious effort to build up an army without men."

With few exceptions, however, the speakers who carried on the first day of debate on the Hay bill had little but good to say of it.

Most of them approved of the general plan of the national guard, debate indicating that this feature will be approved by a large majority in the house.

HUNT FOR VILLA IS O. K'D BY SENATE

Battleship Kentucky Ordered to Vera Cruz.

Washington, March 18.—With the war department claiming to have no information concerning movements of the Pershing expedition in Mexico, the senate passed a concurrent resolution approving the purposes of the expedition and assuring the Carranza government that it will be carried out with scrupulous respect for the sovereignty of the Mexican people.

The resolution was introduced by Senator La Follette after it had received the approval of President Wilson.

Although the state department issued a statement containing reports from various parts of Mexico to show that there was little apparent hostility on the part of the Mexican people toward the American hunt for the Villa bandits, the situation at Tapico, on the east coast, was sufficiently uncertain to cause Secretary of the Navy Daniels to order a detachment of 500 marines from the Philadelphia navy yard to Pensacola for possible use in Mexico.

He also let it be known that the Atlantic fleet is at Guantamo, with in striking distance of the Mexican coast, that the battleship Kentucky is on her way from New Orleans to Vera Cruz, that the 1,000 marines in Hayti are available if needed, and that Admiral Winslow, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, is keeping watch on conditions along the west coast.

STINGING ARRAIGNMENT MADE

Move to Take Hinshaw Case From Jury Denied by Court.

Noblesville, Ind., March 18.—What is said to have been the most stinging arraignment of a prisoner ever made in Hamilton county was made by John F. Neal, special prosecutor of Edwin M. Hinshaw, who is on trial in the circuit court charged with conspiring to defraud the depositors in the Cicero Farmers and Merchants' bank, of which he was vice president at the time it was closed by the state banking department more than a year ago.

When Neal finished his opening statement to the jury attorneys for Hinshaw made a motion that the case be taken from the jury because of "prejudicial and biased statements made by Neal. Judge Sparks overruled the motion and the defense attorneys prepared to make a statement to the jury.

That the Cicero bank was kept open for years by lies, deception and trickery and that Hinshaw was the moving spirit in the intrigue which brought ruin to the depositors in the bank was Neal's charge.

KAISER OUTWITTED BY VON HAESELER

Fooled Emperor One Time In German Army Maneuvers.

A PICTURESQUE VETERAN.

Report of Making Field Marshal Adviser to Crown Prince Recalls Famous Anecdote of "When He Fooled the Kaiser"—Has Been In Four Wars.

Berlin.—When the German howitzers launched their fire against the French line in the Verdun region, giving the prelude to a furious battle, cable dispatches from Amsterdam told briefly that the veteran general and trusted friend of the kaiser, Count von Haeseler, had gone to the front to act in an advisory capacity to the crown prince.

No more picturesque figure could have been commissioned by the kaiser for this important work. Excellenz Gottlieb is the idol of the German soldier. Field Marshal General Gottlieb, Count von Haeseler, celebrated his eightieth birthday on Jan. 18. This is his fourth great war.

Despite his age Count von Haeseler is one of the most modern and undoubtedly one of the most important of German generals. He is held up to the soldiers as an example of the true Spartan. He drinks only milk.

A great fund of stories has been built about Count von Haeseler. The most famous of the anecdotes told about him is that of the time "when he fooled the kaiser," as one can hear German schoolboys tell.

It was during the regular kaiser maneuvers in May, some twenty years ago. The emperor made a bet that he would capture the count. He was the commander in chief of the "reds," while Count von Haeseler, commanding of the fortress of Metz, was the leader of the "blues," defending the heights of the Fort Kaiserin against the kaiser's forces.

Suddenly "Excellenz Gottlieb" was heard to mutter between his teeth: "Donnerwetter! What's the idea of that foolhardy cavalry reconnaissance? Those fellows seem to be after me!"

The general staff officer to whom the count had spoken galloped with half a column of cavalry after the reconnoitering party. The horse of the last man stumbled and threw its rider. The general staff officer had a talk with him, then dashed back to his commander.

Count von Haeseler thus learned the object of the reconnaissance. After a brief explanation his whole staff rode forward, forming a semicircle around the count, directly toward Fort Leipzig, immediately in front of the advancing enemy. There Count von Haeseler unobserved left the staff. A few minutes later there rolled out of the fort a wagon in which were piled straw and old sacks. It passed closely by the kaiser and stopped a few steps behind him.

"Gentlemen," said the emperor at this juncture, "I believe we have now surrounded Count von Haeseler. I am anxious to capture his person. Allons, ahead!"

And the kaiser's suit galloped away. The count crawled from under the sacks and climbed out of the wagon, to the great amusement of the troops camping around it.

"What are these troops doing?" he asked the general in command. "By order of his majesty put out of action!" was the answer.

The count gave a hearty laugh.

"General," said he, "upon my responsibility, attack the 'red' army from the rear. No contradiction, please. I am responsible."

Count von Haeseler being of superior rank, the officer of the 'opposing' army had only to obey.

A few minutes later the astonished emperor heard the signal of retreat at his back. At the same moment the 'blue' army moved forward, and the emperor found himself in such a trap that he had the bugle blow "Das ganze halt!" ("All halt!")

When the kaiser heard of the old general's trick, it is said, he laughed until tears rolled down his cheeks.

FUNSTON CAUGHT FILIPINOS' LEADER

Man Expected to Get Villa Used Strategy on Aguinaldo.

HIS REPORT ON THE EXPLOIT

Pressed Chieftain's Former Aides Into Service and Took Him by Surprise. Captured Papers of the Chief and Deceived Him Into Believing Re-enforcements Were Arriving.

Frederick Funston, who directs the Mexican expedition, is the youngest major general in the United States army. He was born in Ohio and reared on a Kansas farm. He had been a reporter, a botanist, an Alaskan explorer and a filibuster and soldier of fortune in Cuba before finding his vocation in the regular army. He joined the American volunteer forces during the Spanish-American war. Having been instrumental in the capture of Aguinaldo in the Philippines he was promoted to a brigadier generalship. He commanded the forces which occupied Vera Cruz and was made a major general in recognition of his services in that emergency.

When Funston captured the Filipino chieftain, Emilio Aguinaldo, in 1901 he sent to Washington the following official report of his exploit:

"On Jan. 14 a special messenger of Aguinaldo's headquarters at Palawan, bearing letters to different generals of his command and to insurgent chiefs asking for re-enforcements to be sent him, gave himself up to Lieutenant Taylor of the Twenty-fourth infantry, who immediately sent him to me at San Isidro.

"He also had valuable correspondence which gave us information as to the whereabouts and the strength of Aguinaldo's band at that time. We found among them one in which Baldomero Aguinaldo was ordered to take command of the provinces of central Luzon and requesting to send as soon as possible 400 armed men to Aguinaldo's camp.

Native Soldiers Helped Him.

"Then and there I conceived the idea of arming and equipping a number of native troops to pass off as these expected re-enforcements and to make an endeavor to trap Aguinaldo in his lair. The expedition was made up of four Tagalogs, who were formerly commanding officers in Aguinaldo's army, and who selected seventy-eight men of the Maccabebe scouts, all of whom could talk the Tagalo. I obtained a number of captured insurgents' uniforms, and ten Maccabebes were equipped with Remington and Mauser rifles.

"We embarked on the gunboat Vicksburg and landed on March 14 at 2 o'clock in the morning. The expedition was nominally placed in command of Hilario Placido, ex-insurgent colonel. After marching twenty miles we reached the town of Casiguran. We had sent word to the presidente of the town through native messengers that re-enforcements for Aguinaldo were on the way through his town. The presidente was completely deceived. My troops had captured some months ago some official paper of General Lacuna, bearing his official stamp and seal. In order to make the deception all the more complete we succeeded in forging the signature of Lacuna to letters to Aguinaldo. These letters were sent ahead, and we followed.

"The trip to Aguinaldo's camp was a most severe one upon the men. Our food supply was entirely exhausted, and my men were so weak that when we reached within eight miles of Aguinaldo's camp we could go no farther.

Got Food From Aguinaldo.

"We therefore sent a messenger ahead to Aguinaldo's camp, informing him of our plight and requesting that he send us food before we could go farther. This was supplied, and the disguise and ruse adopted by us had been complete. As we had told Aguinaldo that we had American prisoners, he sent word that they be given their liberty.

"As the Maccabebes approached the town the troops of Aguinaldo's bodyguard, consisting of fifty men, were drawn up in parade to receive the supposed re-enforcements. The men who posed as officers of our expedition marched into the camp and paid their respects to Aguinaldo, who received them in a large house built on the bank of the Palawan river.

"After the exchange of courtesies the officers excused themselves from Aguinaldo and his staff for a moment, stepped outside and ordered their Maccabebe troops drawn up into line and commanded them to commence firing into Aguinaldo's troops. The rout of the insurgents was complete. The ex-insurgent officers, the five Americans and several Maccabebe scouts immediately made a rush for the house which was used as Aguinaldo's headquarters and took him prisoner.

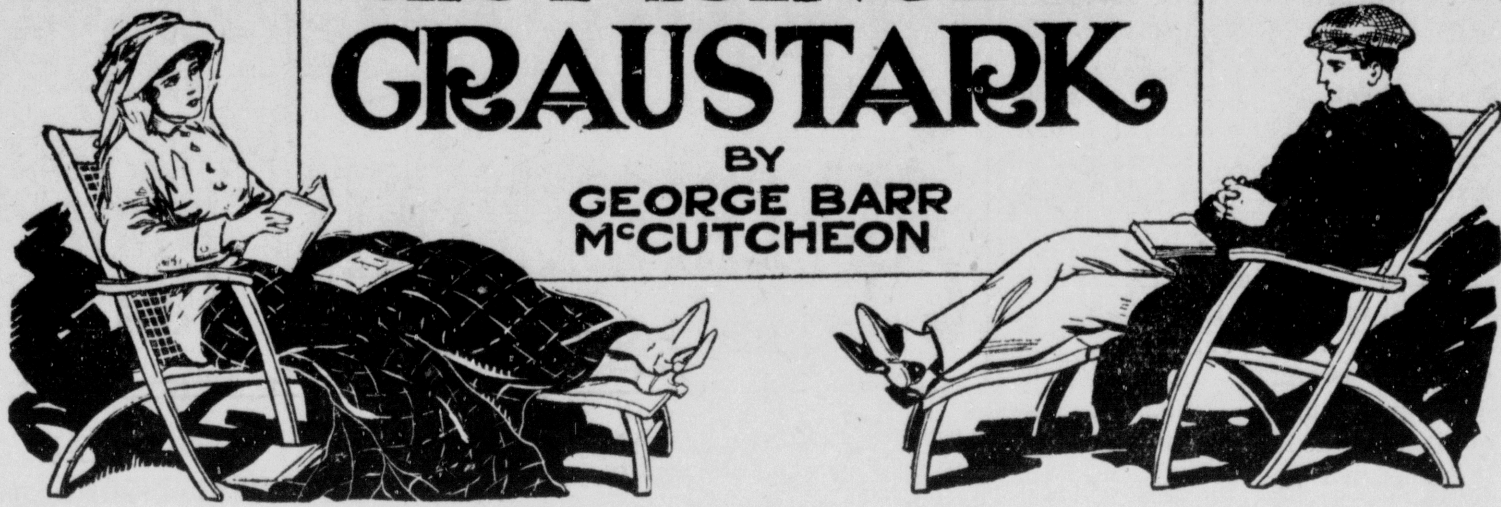

"Aguinaldo when first taken prisoner raved and swore at the deception practiced upon him, but later accepted the situation with dignity."

Forgot Horse and Buggy.

Dazzled by the attractiveness of a young woman of Dalton, Ga., the other evening, a young man living about a mile from the First Methodist church after leaving her walked home, completely forgetting his horse and buggy, which he had left near the church.

The PRINCE of GRAUSTARK

GEORGE BARR
M'CUTCHEON

CHAPTER III. Protecting the Blood.

THE game was promptly interrupted. It would not be far wrong to say that Mrs. King's pretty mouth was open not entirely as an aid to breathing. She couldn't believe her eyes as she slowly abandoned her court and came forward to meet the advancing visitor.

"Take my racket, dear," she said to one of the Feltons. It happened to be Fannie, and the poor child almost fainted with joy.

The prince remained in the far court, idly twirling his racket.

"Afternoon, King," said Mr. Blithers, doffing his panama—to fan a heated brow. "Been watching the game from the road for a spell. Out for a stroll. Couldn't resist running in for a minute. You play a beautiful game, Mrs. King. How do you do? Pretty hot work, though, isn't it?"

He was shaking hands with King and smiling genially upon the trim, panting figure of the prince's adversary.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Blithers," said King, still staring. "You—you know my wife?"

Mr. Blithers ignored what might have been regarded as an introduction and blandly announced that tennis wasn't a game for fat people, patting his somewhat aggressive extension in mock dolefulness as he spoke.

"You should see my daughter's play," he went on. "Got a medal at Lakewood last spring. I'll fix up a match soon, Mrs. King, between you and Maud. Ought to be worth going miles to see, eh, King?"

"Oh, I am afraid, Mr. Blithers, that I am not in your daughter's class," said Lorraine King, much too innocently.

"We've got a pretty fair tennis court up at Blitherwood," said Mr. Blithers calmly. "I have a professional instructor up every week to play with Maud. She can trim most of the amateurs, so."

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Blithers," mumbled King. "Permit me to introduce Count Quinnox and Lieutenant Dank." Both foreigners had arisen and were standing very erect and soldierly a few yards away. "You know Miss Felton, of course."

"Delighted to meet you, count," said Mr. Blithers, advancing with outstretched hand. He shook the hand of the lieutenant with a shade less energy. He affected a most dege manner, squinting carelessly at the prince. "That young chap plays a nice game. Who is he?"

The two Graustarkians stiffened perceptibly and waited for King to make the revelation to his visitor.

"That's Prince Robin of"—he began, but Mr. Blithers cut him short with a genial wave of the hand.

"Of course," he exclaimed, as if annoyed by his own stupidity. "I did hear that you were entertaining a prince. Slipped my mind, however. Well, well, we're coming in the world, eh, having a real nabob among us."

"How long is the prince to be with you, Mrs. King?"

"Won't you sit down, Mr. Blithers?" said Mrs. King. "Or would you prefer a more comfortable chair on the porch? We"—

"No, thanks, I'll stay here if you don't mind," said he hastily and dragged up the camp chair that Lieutenant Dank had been occupying.

"Fetch another chair, Lucas," said King to the servant. "And another glass of lemonade for Miss Felton."

"Felton?" queried Mr. Blithers, sitting down very carefully on the rather fragile chair and hitching up his white flannel trousers at the knees to reveal a pair of purple socks, somewhat elementary in tone.

"We know your daughter, Mr. Blithers," said little Miss Nellie eagerly.

"I was just trying to remember"—

"We live across the road—over there in the little white house with the ivy"—

"—where I'd heard the name," proceeded Mr. Blithers, still looking at the prince.

"By Jove, I should think my daughter and the prince would make a rattling good match. I mean," he added, with a boisterous laugh, "a good match at tennis. We'll have to get 'em together some day, eh, up at Blitherwood. How long is the prince to be with you, Mrs. King?"

"It's rather uncertain, Mr. Blithers," said she and no more.

Mr. Blithers fanned himself in patience for a moment or two. Then he looked at his watch.

"Getting along toward dinner time up our way," he ventured. Everybody seemed rather intent on the game, which was extremely one sided.

"Good work!" shouted King as Fannie Felton managed to return an easy service.

Lieutenant Dank applauded vigorously. "Splendid!" he cried out. "Capitally placed!"

"They speak remarkably good English, don't they?" said Mr. Blithers in an audible aside to Mrs. King.

She smiled. "Officers in the Graustark army are required to speak English, French and German, Mr. Blithers."

"It's a good idea," said he. "Maud speaks French and Italian like a native. She was educated in Paris and Rome, you know. Fact is, she's lived abroad a great deal."

"Is she at home now, Mr. Blithers?"

"Depends on what you'd call home, Mrs. King. We've got so many I don't know just which is the real one. If you mean Blitherwood, yes, she's there. Course there's our town house in Madison avenue, the place at Newport, one at Nice and one at Pasadena, Cal., you know, and a little shack in London. By the way, my wife says you live quite near our place in New York."

"We live in Madison avenue, but it's a rather long street, Mr. Blithers. Just where is your house?" she inquired rather spitefully.

He looked astonished. "You surely must know where the Blithers house is at"—

"Game!" shrieked Fannie Felton, tossing her racket in the air, a victor.

"They're through," said Mr. Blithers in a tone of relief. He shifted his legs and put his hands on his knees, suggesting a readiness to arise on an instant's notice.

"Shall we try another set?" called out the prince.

"Make it doubles," put in Lieutenant Dank, and turned to Nellie. "Shall we take them on?"

And doubles it was, much to the disgust of Mr. Blithers. He sat through the nine games, manifesting an interest he was far from feeling.

To his utter amazement at the conclusion of the game the four players made a dash for the house without even so much as a glance in his direction. It was the prince who shouted something that sounded like "now for a shower!" as he raced up the terrace, followed by the other participants.

Mr. Blithers said something violent under his breath, but resolutely retained his seat. It was King who glanced shyly at his watch this time and subsequently shot a questioning look at his wife. She was frowning in considerable perplexity and biting her firm, red lips. Count Quinnox coolly arose and excused himself with the remark that he was off to dress for dinner. He also looked at his watch, which certainly was an act that one would hardly have expected of a diplomat.

"Well, well," said Mr. Blithers profoundly. Then he looked at his own watch—and settled back in his chair, a somewhat dogged compression about his jaws. He was not the man to be thwarted. "You certainly have a cozy little place here, King," he remarked after a moment or two.

"We like it," said King, twiddling his fingers behind his back. "Humble, but homelike."

"Mrs. Blithers has been planning to come over for some time, Mrs. King. I told her she oughtn't to put it off—be neighborly, don't you know. That's me, I'm for being neighborly with my neighbors. But women, they—well, you know how it is, Mrs. King. Always something turning up to keep 'em from doing the things they want to do most. And Mrs. Blithers has so many sociable obli—I beg pardon?"

"I was just wondering if you would stay and have dinner with us, Mr.

Blithers," said she, utterly helpless. She couldn't look her husband in the eye—and it was quite fortunate that she was unable to do so, for it would have resulted in a laughing duel that could never have been explained.

"Why," said Mr. Blithers, arising and looking at his watch again, "bless my soul, it is past dinner time, isn't it? I had no idea it was so late. 'Pon my soul, it's good of you, Mrs. King! You see, we have dinner at 7 up at Blitherwood, and—I declare, it's half past now! I don't see where the time has gone. Thanks! I will stay if you really mean to be kind to a poor old beggar. Don't do anything extra on my account, though—just your regular dinner, you know. No frills, if you please." He looked himself over in some uncertainty. "Will this rag of mine do?"

"Pray do not think of it!" she cried. "The men change, of course, after they've been playing tennis, but we—well, you see, you haven't been playing," she concluded quite breathlessly.

At that instant the sprightly Feltons dashed pellmell down the steps and across the lawn homeward, shrieking something unintelligible to Mrs. King as they passed.

"They are dears," said Mrs. King. "The—er—prince attracted by either one of 'em?" he queried.

"He barely knows them, Mr. Blithers."

"I see. Shouldn't think they'd appeal to him. Rather light, I should say—I mean up here," and he tapped his forehead so that she wouldn't think that he referred to pounds and ounces. "I don't believe Maud knows 'em, as the little one said. Maud is rather"—

"It is possible they have mistaken some one else for your daughter," said she very gently.

"Impossible!" said he, with force. "They are coming back here for dinner," she said, and her eyes sparkled with mischief. "I shall put you between them, Mr. Blithers. You will find that they are very bright, attractive girls."

"We'll see," said he succinctly. King caught them up at the top of the steps. He seemed to be slightly out of breath.

"Make yourself at home, Mr. Blithers. I must get into something besides these duds I'm wearing," he said. "Would you like to—er—wash up while we're"—

"No, thanks," interposed Mr. Blithers. "I'm as clean as a whistle. Don't mind me, please. Run along and dress, both of you. I'll sit out here and—count the minutes," the last with a very elaborate bow to Mrs. King.

"Dinner's at half past 8," said she and disappeared. Mr. Blithers recalled his last glance at his watch and calculated that he would have at least fifty minutes to count, provided dinner was served promptly on the dot. So he settled himself in the big porch chair and scowled more deeply than before.

Later on he met the prince. Very warmly he shook the tall young man's hand—he even gave it a prophetic second squeeze—and said:

"I am happy to welcome you to the Catskills, prince."

"Thank you," said Prince Robin. "A most extraordinary person," said Count Quinnox to King after Mr. Blithers had taken his departure, close upon the heels of the Feltons, who were being escorted home by the prince and Dank. The venerable Graustarkian's heroic face was a study. He had just concluded a confidential hour in a remote corner of the library with the millionaire while the younger people were engaged in a noisy though temperate encounter with the roulette wheel at the opposite end of the room. "I've never met any one like him, Mr. King." He mopped his brow and still looked a trifle dazed.

King laughed. "There isn't any one like him, count. He is the one and only Blithers."

"He is very rich?"

"Millions and millions," said Mrs. King. "Didn't he tell you how many?"

"I am not quite sure. This daughter of his—is she attractive?"

"Rather. Why?"

"He informed me that her dot would be twenty millions if she married the right man. Moreover, she is his only heir. 'Pon my soul, Mrs. King, he quite took my breath away when he announced that he knew all about our predicament in relation to the Russian loan. It really sounded quite—you might say significant. Does—does he imagine that—good heaven, it is almost stupefying!"

"Sounds ominous to me," said King dryly. "Is Bobby for sale?"

The count favored him with a look of horror. "My dear Mr. King!" Then as comprehension came, he smiled. "I see. No, he isn't for sale. He is a prince, not a pawn. Mr. Blithers may be willing to buy, but"—He proudly shook his head.

"He was feeling you out, however," said King, ruminating. "Planting the seed, so to speak."

The count seemed to be turning something over in his mind. "Your amazing Mr. Blithers further confided to me that he might be willing to take care of the Russian obligation for us if no one else turns up in time. As a matter of fact, without waiting for my reply, he said that he would have his lawyers look into the matter of security at once. Amazing, amazing!"

"Of course you told him it was not to be considered," said King sharply.

"I endeavored to do so, but I fear he did not grasp what I was saying. Moreover, I tried to tell him that it was a matter I was not at liberty to discuss. He didn't hear that, either."

"He is not in the habit of hearing any one but himself, I fear," said King.

"I am afraid poor Robin is in jeopardy," said his wife ruefully. "The bogey man is after him."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

CROWBAR PIERCES BODY.

Fellow Workmen Pulled It Out and Blake Will Recover.

Grass Valley, Cal.—How a man could strike upon the sharp end of a crowbar, have it pierce his flesh and come out under a rib and still live is the remarkable part of an accident which befell Joseph Blake.

He was working at his father's mining claim and was standing upon a bank when he felt the earth give way under him. He jumped and in his excitement did not notice the bar, which was sticking out of the ground.

It penetrated his back in the lower part and ranged upward toward the waist line and emerged under the lower rib. He was rushed to a sanitarium after his fellow employees had pulled the bar out of his flesh. It is believed Blake will recover.

The Court of Last Resort.

Around the stove of the cross roads grocery is the real court of last resort, for it finally over-rules all others. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been brought before this court in almost every cross roads grocery in this country, and has always received a favorable verdict. It is in the country where man expects to receive full value for his money that this remedy is most appreciated. Obtainable everywhere.

SISTER: READ MY FREE OFFER!

I am a woman. I know a woman's trials. I know her need of sympathy and help. If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness, or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living,

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember, it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, there accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers post-paid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address, manner no less than his message, carrying conviction to the hearts of his hearers.

MINISTER CLOSES AN ACTIVE CAREER

"Houston, Honeytown, Driftwood, Brownstown and other towns have felt his power, enjoyed his happy association, and lastly Freetown, under his personal influence, has been made a strong point for Gospel work and Gospel truth.

"A great man has fallen in Israel." This community knows it. Perhaps forty calls to preach funerals have come to him since his affliction incapacitated him from responding. He was a friend to everybody. Everybody was his friend and as a preacher his sociability won him a place and opportunity and then his work for a lost world followed. Under such circumstances, backed by such a noble manhood and so loyal a heart, success came naturally. It could not be otherwise."

About thirty years ago he became a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge, No. 488 at Brownstown and later joined the camp of that order and is also a member of Rebekah Lodge No. 667 of Seymour. His presence at each of these was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone on account of his pleasant and jovial disposition.

A year and four months ago he suffered an attack of heart and kidney trouble and had patiently suffered from his affliction. When the weather was favorable last summer and fall he could leave his home and go among his friends which was highly enjoyed by him. On a few occasions he filled pulpits for which he earnestly prayed he would have the strength and health to do. On Thursday he suffered a paralytic stroke from which he failed to rally.

The funeral will be held at the Christian church in this city at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, conducted by the Elders Z. T. Sweeney and W. H. Book, of Columbus, and F. P. Smith, the local pastor. Burial at Riverview cemetery in charge of the I. O. O. F. lodge.

How To Have City Water Supply Conveniences

DO YOU want all the conveniences a city water supply would give you? Running water in your bathroom? In the kitchen? For the lawn? Garden? Barn? Watering troughs? You can have an abundance of water under strong pressure, for any desired connections, if you install the Kewanee System of Water Supply.

With the Kewanee System, the tank is located in the cellar or buried in the ground, and the water is delivered by air pressure. No elevated or attic tank to leak, freeze, overflow or collapse. Water can be pumped by hand, gasoline engine, electric and other dependable forms of power. Kewanee Pumping Machinery, used in complete Kewanee Systems, is as far ahead of ordinary pumping rigs, as Kewanee Tanks are ahead of leaky attic tanks. Complete Kewanee Systems cost less than you think. Over 20,000 Kewanee Systems in successful operation.

Watson's Friends Think Withdrawal of Hay's Clears Field for Rushville Man.

STATEMENT BY CHAIRMAN

Declares He Has Not Completed
Work Mapped Out For Him When He Was First Elected.

Indianapolis, March 18—The announcement yesterday by State Chairman Will H. Hays that he will not seek the Republican nomination for United States senator to succeed the late Benjamin F. Shively, was received by leaders of both factions in the party yesterday with great interest. Some predicted that the next few days will witness important developments in the senatorial situation. Many believe other candidates for the place will go before the Republican state convention, April 5 and 6.

The friends of James E. Watson declared the withdrawal of Hays leaves a satisfactory way in which to patch up the party's differences. It is understood that Watson is proceeding as a candidate for the short-term nomination, leaving Harry S. New as the only applicant for the long term. However, this was not stated authoritatively, as the Watson headquarters has maintained a strict policy of silence since the statement was issued early in the week that Watson would carry his fight for the long-term nomination to the convention.

In announcing his decision, Hays asserts he will continue as the party's state chairman, because, he says, he has not yet finished the work that had been mapped out for him when he first was elected to the chairmanship two years ago. His statement reads:

"I will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for the vacancy in the Senate. It is my opinion that my present duty to the party lies in the other direction. My work as chairman is but half done and I can only conclude that that work should first be finished and that duty discharged. In the performance of that duty I would submerge any probable personal preference without any hesitancy whatever.

"My interest in politics arises from my belief that such activity is a citizen's duty and the best means of serving the country in ordinary periods. My firm conviction has always been that the Republican party is the best instrument to that end; and, wherever, therefore I can best serve the party is where I propose to be.

"To the innumerable friends who, in their generosity, have urged my candidacy in such overwhelming manner, I can not express the depth of my gratitude and affection. This evidence of friendship means more to me than all else. My word to these and my sincerest wish is that they all join with me in bringing the complete Republican victory which is so important for the country's welfare."

Hays has departed for New York to be gone several days. He was unanimously re-elected state chairman at the meeting of the Republican state central committee Wednesday, but held his acceptance of the place in abeyance. When the state committee meets again he will accept the place and continue to head the party organization.

When Hays' announcement became public many friends of James E. Watson visited the latter's office in the Hotel Severin. They declared the action of the state chairman will simplify the method of avoiding the breach that was threatened because of the determination of Watson to carry his fight for the long-term nomination against Harry New to the Republican convention.

In other quarters, however, there was all insistence that there would be other candidates, and that Watson has not yet won the nomination.

ANNA BELLE Enjoys an Amateur Play

Dear Friends:—Everybody enjoys an amateur play by children, especially the parents, and I think our schools and societies ought to give even more than they do. All the children enjoy it, too, for you know the rehearsals are lots of fun. Our Sewing Society gave ours and most every one of the good stories, such as Red Riding Hood and others, were represented by us girls and boys. We took in quite a few pennies for the poor and some of our daddies put in as much as a quarter each. This helped a great deal and we may give another play before the real hot weather sets in.

How are you doing in SEWING SOCIETY work? I get nice long letters every day telling of the fine success we're having in this great work. Have you tried a "potato day" stunt yet? This seems a very fine idea to me and I'm sure the poor people you help in this way will bless you and your friends for helping to make their lives happier. Let's all resolve that we will make this the greatest year of Society work and I'm sure that what we say we can do will be done. Write me care this paper for I'm always glad to hear of you and your success. Lovingly,

Anna Belle
